

Jim Rohn, an expert on professional motivation, says it perfectly in the following,

“Whatever good things we build, end up building us.”

Here at Opportunities, Inc. we have been in the business of building vocational services for people for over forty years and with this present remodel and renovation project in full operation; plans are well under way to continue constructing positive training and employment options for individuals with disabilities long into the future!

We are building Opportunities for training.....

Today, we offer over 75 different projects on any given day to provide real world of work experiences for nearly 300 consumers.

We are building Opportunities for employment.....

Today, we support over 400 consumers in competitive employment annually to ensure they can maximize their potential in the community.

We are Building Opportunities for the future.....

When this renovation project is complete, an additional 30,000 square feet will be available to expand production capabilities significantly and increase our workforce substantially, which will positively impact our community.

Whatever good things we have built here at Opportunities, Inc., are certainly building us!

Opportunities consumers, Board Members, Employees, State Representative Andy Jorgensen & many members of the community all participated in the Groundbreaking ceremony!
